Rebellious Unions Shut Out of Conference to Prevent Big Strike October 1.

ROLSHEVIK TRACES SEEN

Employers Unable to Understand Otherwise the Breaking of Labor Contracts.

Extended negotiations between embyers and union heads failed yesterto clarify the labor situation in the lew York book and job printing houses. a compromise offer made by the emdevers in an effort to avert the strike, which is threatened for October 1, was elected tentatively pending its submission to the members of the unions, and Leon H. Rouse, president of "Big Six." the typographical union, stated that he rould recommend its rejection to his rganization when its meets to-morrow flernoon in Saengerbund Hall, Brook-

This meeting is looked forward to with much anxiety by all of the parties interested, and particularly by the members of the locals which have second from the international printing trades from the international printing trades unions and whose members are on strike in the establishment of the Publishers Printing Company, whence the interaction of the surface of the unions were not included in the offer made by the employers. They appeared at the offer of the Americation of Employing the employers. They appeared at the offices of the Association of Employing Frinters in the Fuller Building, where the conference was held with all intention of taking part, but William Green of the United Typothetse of America, and chairman of the employers' committee, refused to have any dealings with them upon the ground that they no longs were in good standing with their international. He based his attitude upon the announcement made Thursday by the presidents of the international spinting trades unions, who repudiated printing trades unions, who repudiated the belligerent locals. This resulted in the expulsion of James Barley and Bernard Nolan, leaders of the secession outilts, and some dozen of their constituents from the meeting. No-ian first expressed some forcible optucins and asked Mr. Rouse to look after his

In the corridor the wrath of the rebellious union men rose high against Major George L. Berry, their interna-conal president, who caused their sus-

Irritated by Bolshevik Charge.

One source of irritation to Mr. Nolan's friends is the charge of Bolshevism and extreme radicalism made by Major Berry against the persons responsible for the present strike situation. "Any one had better be very careful how he calls me a Bolshevist or a socialist," Mr. Nolan said.

Notwithstanding this opinion of the employers that Bolshevik tendencies in the locals are responsible for the trouble is unchanged. The employers believe that the many union members are swayed by destructive agitators who hold out promises of high rewards, with no thought of the injury that they are doing the business which employs them.

The proposition submitted by the employers to the representatives of all unions, excepting those that have seccéed from the international, reads in part as follows:

"I—An arbitration agreement or responsity which expire at a dif-

"A 55 increase in all scales on basis of forty-eight hour week with provision in contract for readjustment each six months on cost of living basis in accordance with the following clause:

"Unless it can be shown by the cost of living figures of the United States Department of Labor Bureau of Statistics that during the six months period from the date of this contract is effective, and at intervals of six months there-

ive, and at intervals of six months thereafter, the cost of living has increased 5 per cent or more, then and then only shall the officers of the union herein represented have the right to ask for a further readjustment of the wage sales herein set forth provided, that the percentage of increase shall apply only to the 1914 scales, the same basis as has been used to work out present scales, as embodied in this agreement, and, further provided, that should the cost of living for one of the six months beriods decrease by an amount equal to or exceeding the increases, then any increases above the amount now granted in this agreement may be decreased in the same proportion, provided that no ive, and at intervals of six months there he same proportion, provided that no figures shall reduce the scales below those set forth in this agreement."

Rebel Unions Hear Reports.

The rebel union leaders who were barred from the meeting received reports upon the doings late in the day from Mr. Rouse at the offices of "Big Six," and in turn reported to their followers at a closed meeting held last night at Arlington Hall.

Mr. Rouse refused to make any comment upon the situation for publication, saying that he would have to await the outcome of to-morrow afternoon's meeting in Brooklyn. While this affair is being held the faction headed by Bagley and Noian will have a meeting of their own in progress at Washington Irving High School.

No important developments are expected to-day, unless the rebel unions should call out more of their men without waiting for the first of the month, but Mr. Noian said yesterday that this would not be done. Most of the extremists are waiting for October 1, because that is the date on which their present contracts expire, and they do not want to break those contracts by quitting meanwhile. Members of the international joint conference council may take further steps to relieve the situation when they gather to-day at the Pennsylvania Hotel.

POLICE UNIONS DEFENDED.

ate Committee Told.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Defending the action of the Washington police in seeking to obtain higher pay by unionizing, Patrolman Charles O. Turner told the Senate District of Columbia Committee to-day the Chief of Police had been consulted when affiliation with the American Federation of Labor was proposed and saw no reason against it.

The police had organized only for their own welfare and with no idea of coercing Congress, Turner said, adding that his meagre salary and rising costs had deprived his two children of any summer outing.

Boy Killed by Motor Van. On his way home from school yester day George Lemcke, Jr., six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Lemcke of 1116 Caton avenue, Flatbush, was run over by a motor van at Church avenue and Mari-borough road. The boy died in an auto-mobile on the way to a hospital. The motor truck, the property of the Colonial Van Company, 23 St. Nicholas avenue, Manhattan, was being driven by Eugene
